

SHOOTING OF MADERO TO BE INVESTIGATED BY AUTHORITIES AT ONCE?

STATEMENT THAT FORMER PRESIDENT KILLED SUNDAY DIED WHILE TRYING TO ESCAPE, IS GIVEN CREDENCE.

WASHINGTON UNEASY

Meanwhile Washington Sets Troops in Motion to Meet Any Emergency That May Arise Along the Border.

Washington, Feb. 24.—The official investigation into the death of Madero and Suarez on Sunday is to begin at once, but the general belief prevails that it will substantiate the official versions of the occurrence.

The fact that the bodies of the two statesmen were recovered in the rear of the penitentiary was explained today by the statement that a second encounter occurred close to the building.

It is said the automobiles ran along a side road, and that Madero and Suarez jumped out and were running when they were caught between the fire of the guards and the attacking party, this accounting for wounds being inflicted on them from different directions.

Provisional President Huerta and the other authorities here are earnest in their declarations that the government was acting in good faith and that the death of the prisoners was due solely to unforeseen circumstances.

With the passing of Francisco Madero the general opinion prevails that the tenseness of the situation has been relieved. There is a marked tendency on the part of all classes to accept the new order of things. From various parts of the country reports have been received telling of further adhesions to the new administration.

The newspapers herald the new era and prophesy immediate peace and the early resumption of prosperous conditions.

General Huerta's government undoubtedly, for the present at least, has the upper hand in the country. A committee of followers of Zapata arrived today to discuss arrangements to bring about peace in the south.

Reports from the state of Oaxaca indicate that the disaffected Indians there have been placated. Juan Sanchez Azcona, the private secretary of Francisco Madero, was released from prison today.

El Paso, Feb. 24.—Former Madero troops at Suaz, near Chihuahua, have rebelled against the Huerta government and declare they will not permit traffic between Chihuahua and the border. They were at Suaz as a part of the guard for the Mexican Central Railroad between Juarez and Chihuahua. This is the first open declaration of troops of the deposed president in northern Mexico. Juarez Maderist troops still are under arms, but are guarded carefully by federalists in the town.

Ernesto Madero Safe. Vera Cruz, Feb. 24.—Ernesto Madero, who was finance minister in the cabinet of his nephew, President Francisco Madero, arrived here with his family on a special car this morning. They will probably depart this afternoon on board the Cuban gun-boat Cuba. Everything is quiet here.

More Troops. Washington, Feb. 24.—More orders for moving troops to Galveston with the purpose of concentrating a full army division there in accordance with the policy of preparedness as outlined by President Taft in a public speech in New York last Saturday night, were issued by the war department early today.

Carter in Command. Major General William H. Carter, the department and divisional commander at Chicago, will be in command. In addition to the fourth brigade of the second division, consisting of the 23rd, 26th and 27th infantry now in the middle west, orders were issued today for the preparation for entrainment of the entire sixth brigade, comprising the eleventh infantry, Col. Arthur Williams at Fort O. A. Russell, Wyoming, the 13th infantry, Col. Thomas F. David, at Fort McKean, Wyoming, and Fort Bliss, Texas, the 22d infantry, Col. Daniel A. Frederick at Fort Bliss, Texas.

Very Anxious. A feeling of anxiety over the situation in Mexico continued throughout official circles during the early part of the day, but there were no additional dispatches made public to throw further light on conditions existing. It was thought that Ambassador Wilson's message late last night stating that the diplomatic corps would not attend the luncheon to be given this noon to discuss the situation, would prove a sufficient indication to the Mexican authorities for the purpose of this and other governments to await definite assurances that the bloody tragedies just enacted had not occurred through any connivance of the Mexican administration.

Huerta's Attitude. While this has been asserted in the statement made by Provisional President Huerta and Minister De la Barra, assurances were at the same time given of a searching investigation which would officially determine the

CHARGE UNIONS WITH RESTRAINT OF TRADE

GOVERNMENT STARTS SUIT ON GROUNDS THAT STRIKE INTERFERES WITH BUSINESS.

ASKS AN INJUNCTION

Would Compel Defendants From Interfering With Handling Government Business Over The Telegraph Wires.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—An alleged "labor trust" was attacked by the federal government in civil suit filed here today against local union members 9 and 134 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, engaged in a strike against the Postal Telegraph Cable Company.

As part of the labor war against the telegraph company the government charges officers and employees of the union with combining and conspiring through acts of violence and depredations to injure the Postal Telegraph wires, to interfere with the transmission of government and commercial messages in interstate commerce.

Restraint of Commerce. While restraint of interstate commerce is alleged, the Sherman law is not specifically mentioned in the government's bill of complaint which generally declares that the defendants have violated the rights granted under the constitution and laws of the United States to the telegraph company and senders of messages.

The government asks that the defendants be enjoined from obstructing interstate and government messages over the postal lines, cutting, burning or otherwise injuring its telegraph lines and from interfering by threats, intimidation, persuasion or force with employees or prospective employees of the company. Pending final hearing the petition pleads for temporary injunction against the alleged unlawful acts.

Official Defendants. A number of officials of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers local unions, No. 9 and 134, are named as defendants of the Chicago Board of Trade. The bill declares that without prompt and uninterrupted telegraphic communications between Chicago and points in other states and foreign countries, the sale and shipment of products and merchandise in interstate commerce would be seriously interfered with, and adds that the efficiency of the government of the United States would be greatly impaired.

Labor trouble between the postal and electrical unions arose in September last when it is alleged union officials insisted that the telegraph company should establish "closed shops" policy. The company refused it is added, because it would have necessitated the discharge of old and faithful employees not members of the union. Some of the defendants are alleged to have informed the postal

There's Only One Thing to Do With a Dollar.

A TALK TO GAZETTE READERS

Strange and interesting are the uses to which a dollar can be put.

With a dollar a fellow can buy anything from a skunk of Janesville beer to a guaranteed time-piece.

He can sit in the front "Row, Row, Row" at a cabaret show and get "bawled out" by his wife or lady friend for too lively an interest in the performance.

He can sit into a little game or go to a Turkish bath aquarium with the rest of the fish and in both instances come out clean.

He needn't be proud, yet he can get "stuck up." He needn't be down and out, yet he can get "lifted."

A dollar can get us in or out of trouble with equal ease. A dollar is always a "home of contention" that's why some men with a bank roll go to the dogs.

A dollar is as delusive as a woman's smile and as insincere as the words of love that fall from the crimson lips of a vampire.

On the other hand, a dollar is as faithful as a yellow mongrel and as majestically true blue as Pythias.

It's a soft bait that the forbidden fruit which grew in the garden of Paradise was an old, rusty eight-bit piece—a screaming eagle. That's why the human race has developed gentlemen with an eagle eye—a la Rockefeller.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox would say that a dollar is "a saint, a siren and a paradox," and she'd be perfectly on the level in saying so.

The only thing to do with a dollar is to spend it—spend it right, if we can, but spend it, nevertheless.

Wednesday the Merchants are holding their first Dollar Day. Eight full pages of tonight's paper carry lists of their offers for One Dollar.

They are not doing this because they love us, but because the unusual weather conditions demand an extraordinary effort to close a slow month.

Look carefully over the advertisements in tonight's paper and you will save many a dollar.

IRON WORKERS MAY RE-ELECT RYAN AS HEAD OF NEW UNION

Former President Convicted in Conspiracy Plot May Be Named President of Reorganized Association.

Indianapolis, Feb. 24.—Reorganization of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, all but two of whose executive officers were convicted last December in connection with the unions' strike against "open shop" contractors is planned at the association's annual convention which opens today.

It is the union's first convention since that held in Milwaukee in September, 1911, several months before John J. McNamara, then secretary, pleaded guilty to dynamiting at Los Angeles. It was to have been held last September, but was postponed because of dynamite conspiracy trial which resulted in the conviction of President Frank M. Ryan, and thirty-two other union officials, several of whom are still confined in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kansas. About 100 delegates from local unions in every state will represent the 12,000 members in the reorganization.

President Ryan, who received a seven year sentence, the heaviest punishment of all and who is now at liberty under bonds pending an appeal is favored by some delegates for reelection. Since his release from Leavenworth, Mr. Ryan has been directing the details for the convention. Joseph E. McCleary, Cleveland, acting secretary, will probably be elected permanent secretary to succeed Herbert S. Hockin, another of the convicted men.

McCleary and Edward Lewis, San Francisco, both executive board members were the only officials of the union not convicted in the dynamite plot. In the cases of the other officials the jury sustained the government's charges that the union's funds were appropriated so that the McNamara brothers and Orrie McManigal might pay the expense of destroying the property of contractors who refused to employ only union men.

Attorneys for Railroads and Government Argue for Plan to Distribute Southern Pacific Stock.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 24.—The divorce of the Harriman railroads, as decreed by the Supreme Court of the United States, was brought a step nearer its accomplishment today, when attorneys representing the railroads and the Government appeared before the United States Circuit Court judges in this city and argued in support of the plan for the distribution of Southern Pacific stock held by the Union Pacific Railroad. The plan, as already announced, allows stockholders in the Union Pacific to subscribe for one share in the Southern Pacific for every four shares of Union Pacific stock they hold. A syndicate headed by Kuhn, Loeb and Company of New York has been formed to subscribe all stock not taken over by shareholders in the two roads. The Union Pacific will take over the Central Pacific, from Ogden to San Francisco, if the plan is approved by the court.

WHITE SLAVE TRADE ACT CONSTITUTIONAL

Federal Court Upheld by Supreme Court of United States—No Rate Case Decisions Given.

Washington, Feb. 24.—The supreme court finally concluded its announcement of decisions today without any on the state rate or other important cases pending.

The federal "white slave traffic act" of 1910 was upheld as constitutional by the court, in an opinion by Justice McKenna.

FORESTRY PROGRAM IS NOT IN DANGER

State Forester Griffith Does Not Fear That Threatened Law Will Block Appropriations.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 24.—State Forester Griffith said today he does not believe that in a legal sense the program of the state board of forestry comes under the head of internal improvements and for this reason professes to hold no fear over the threatened law of the two tenths of a mill tax, as a result of Attorney General Owen's opinion. He said that with the constitutional amendment now out of the way for the reason that it was not properly adopted by the state, the legislature is free to make direct appropriations.

TRY CLOWN AND WIFE FOR MURDER OF HEIRESS

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 24.—The case of Charles Cramer, alias Conway, a circus clown, and his wife, Lillian Beatrice Ryall-Conway was called in court today for trial. The couple are charged with the murder of Miss Sophia Singer, a Baltimore heiress, who was robbed and killed last October in a South Side rooming house.

EDUCATORS MOVING UPON PHILADELPHIA

Various Associations of Teachers and Superintendents To Be Entertained There This Week.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 24.—Philadelphia this week is to be the educational center of the country. The occasion is a gathering of the nation's foremost educators for the annual meeting of the department of superintendence of the National Education Association.

A number of affiliated organizations are to meet with the department. Among these are the National Council of Education, National Society for the Study of Education, International Kindergarten Union, National Committee on Agricultural Education, Society of College Teachers of Education, Association of State Superintendents of Education and the National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers Association.

Judging from the completeness and wide scope of the preparations that have been made for the gathering, it will be one of the most notable and fruitful meetings in the history of the co-operative educational movement. Hundreds of well known educators already arrived in the city, and hundreds of others are expected to be on hand when the regular program is taken up tomorrow.

Nearly every state of the Union is represented among the visitors. The membership of the department of superintendence is composed of public school superintendents representing communities as large as New York, Chicago, Boston and St. Louis, as well as some of the smallest villages in the country.

In addition to the superintendents the participants in the convention will include well known college presidents, state superintendents of education, educational writers and experts in every field of educational work.

During the five days of the convention every conceivable topic that could come within the general subject of education will be discussed by the foremost teachers and scholars of the nation. From the kindergarten child to the college post-graduate, the musician to the artisan, all kinds, degrees and phases of instruction will be considered.

Unifying of school system, abolishing of useless courses, adaptation of courses to students and vocational and specialized training are among the subjects to which special attention will be given. At the same time a campaign to raise a $1,000,000 endowment fund for education research will be launched.

GREEN BAY MAN IS KILLED IN WRECK

St. Paul Train Runs Off Embankment at Republic, Mich.—Northwestern Train in Collision.

Green Bay, Feb. 24.—A Chicago Milwaukee and St. Paul road passenger train went over an embankment near the station at Republic, Mich., about ten o'clock last night. Melcher E. Bloomer, conductor of Green Bay, was injured so severely that he died four hours later. John Gallagher, brakeman, and Curtis Schroeder, flagman, were slightly injured. Two or three passengers were injured, but not seriously.

A train going north to Gillette on the Northwestern road ran into two engines in the yards in this city last night. Two women, Mrs. Viola Rundy and Mrs. August Hampel, were caught and taken to St. Vincent's hospital. The conductor, W. J. Magann of Green Bay, had his jaw cut.

FLYER IN FEMALE ATTIRE MAY LEAD TO EXPULSION

Madison, Wis., Feb. 24.—Members of the university faculty are considering the expulsion of a young man who, disguised as a girl at the recent "short-horn" prom, played an Ellington role all evening without detection.

"Heavens, what a figure," exclaimed the young men in chorus when the man-queen went on the first promenade on the ball-room floor. Immediately there was a rush to the side of the "young lady." In the exaggerated décolleté and it is said not a few exceeded the bounds of propriety in seeking an introduction.

As usual in such adventures, the faculty heard of it, and the young man little flyer in women's clothes may lead to another case of "sore eyes" when he buys a ticket for home.

ARGUMENTS TO BEGIN ON GOMERS' APPEAL

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—Arguments on the appeal of Samuel Gompers, Frank Morrison and John Mitchell, American Federation of Labor officials under jail sentences for contempt of court in connection with the Bucks Stove and Range Company case, will begin tomorrow in the court of appeals of the District of Columbia. It is expected the arguments will occupy two days.

Cuba's Day to Celebrate.

Havana, Feb. 24.—In Havana and the provinces alike a holiday was kept today in celebration of the eighteenth anniversary of the declaration of independence and the commencement of the revolution which, with the intervention of the United States, culminated in freedom of Cuba from Spanish rule.

ELDER DIAZ AWAITS HIS COUNTRY'S CALL

FORMER MEXICAN PRESIDENT READY TO RETURN SHOULD FOREIGN COMPLICATIONS ARISE.

GIVES OUT STATEMENT

Has Nothing to Say in Regard to Madero But Gives High Praise to Gen. Huerta—Predicts No American Interference.

Keneth, Egypt, Feb. 24.—Porfirio Diaz, former president of Mexico, declared today that he is holding himself in readiness to respond to the call of his countrymen in case foreign complications should arise out of the revolution there.

If this should not occur he said he would not return to Mexico until a settled government had been re-established and his appearance on any scene where he had long held sway, could be made without risk of being wrongly interpreted.

Elated at Success. The aged ex-president expressed the hope that "hands off Mexico" would continue to be the policy of the United States. General Diaz was greatly elated at the success of his nephew, Felix Diaz, and of General Huerta, the provisional president, whom he considers quite capable of working out the salvation of the republic. The ex-president's dachaueh is temporarily moored at the ancient gathering place of pilgrims whence he has made several trips to Denbair and other noted temples.

The ex-president, after pleading that his entire aloofness from the politics of his country, precluded criticism by him of the late President Francisco Madero's administration made the following statement to the Associated Press:

"I prefer to say nothing regarding the faults of Francisco Madero's rule or the causes of the revolution. As a political opponent of Madero my opinion might be considered biased."

"General Huerta is an officer and a gentleman who possesses the confidence of all classes in Mexico. Personally I have the greatest respect for him and confidence in him. I chose him to escort me from Mexico City to Vera Cruz when I was exiled. I think General Huerta is in a position to maintain order until a constitutional government has been definitely re-established."

"When questioned regarding the further complications in Mexico General Diaz replied:

"That depends entirely upon the energy of the provisional government in suppressing pillage and brigandage. Felix Diaz has had long experience in the army and fully realizes the importance of enforcing respect for life and property."

When reports of the probability of intervention by the United States were mentioned the former Mexican president gravely retorted:

"I and my adherents have always been and will remain sincere friends of the United States government. I cannot imagine the United States, or others taking any action inconsistent with America's well known honesty of purpose."

Hopes to Return. General Diaz hopes and intends to return to Mexico at some time. This, however, he said, "will not occur until peace has been firmly established and my return can have no misconception of place upon. Should, however, foreign complications arise, I will hold myself entirely at my country's service."

General Diaz has not settled on his plans for the future beyond leaving Cairo on March 10 for Paris. He and the members of his family say they are delighted with Egypt and hope to spend months here during 1914.

MONOPLANE FLIGHT NEARLY A DISASTER

Air Man Starts to Fly From Essin to London and Is Nearly Caught in a Bad Storm.

Essin, Germany, Feb. 24.—Josef Savelsack, a well known air man, had a narrow escape from death last night while attempting a venturesome flight in his monoplane from this city to London. He ascended during a low-lying fog. After passing this and reaching a higher altitude his compass got out of order. As he could not see the earth he attempted to steer by the sun, but after an hour's flight he lost his bearings and returned to land. He glided down through the banks of fog and then noticed that he was over the North Sea. A storm was blowing in the spray from the waves was drenching his aeroplane before he could succeed in starting the motor again and rise away from danger. He turned his machine around and soon after the fog cleared he made his way to Deventer, Holland, where he landed after a voyage of which had lasted one hour and forty minutes.

JOSEPH FERRARA ON TRIAL FOR MURDER OF BROTHER

Newark, N. J., Feb. 24.—Joseph Ferrara was arraigned in court today for the alleged murder of his brother Salvatore Ferrara. The tragedy occurred June 27, last, and was the result of a quarrel between the brothers. The accused claims he acted in self-defense, firing the fatal shot only after his brother had attacked him.

Premier Visits Albany.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 24.—The Right Hon. Robert L. Borden, the Dominion premier, arrived in Albany today to be the guest of honor at the annual dinner of the University Club of this city.

MADERO'S FRIENDS WHO TURNED AGAINST HIM MAY GET JOBS IN NEW GOVERNMENT

Three men who were once Madero's friends, but turned against him during the last months of his regime, may get places in the new government. They are Francisco de la Barra, provisional president of Mexico after the resignation of Porfirio Diaz and before the inauguration of Madero; Dr. Vasquez Gomez, Madero's first representative in Washington in 1911, and Manuel Calero, Mexican minister to the United States who resigned a few weeks ago declaring that he had misrepresented conditions in Mexico to the U. S. government. De la Barra is slated for foreign minister.

INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION TO LOSE PROF. COMMONS

Madison, Wis., Feb. 24.—Prof. John B. Commons, back from Washington, confirmed the report of his intended retirement from the state industrial commission. He said that his two years' leave of absence from the university will end July 1, and that beginning next fall he will resume his professorship in the political economy department.

LOCOMOTIVE INSPECTOR MAKES ANNUAL REPORT

Madison, Wis., Feb. 24.—According to the annual report of State Forester Griffith, the inspection of spark arresters on locomotives operated in Wisconsin showed the following results: Number locomotives examined, 651; in good condition, 327 (50 percent); in fair condition, 145; in bad condition, 126; in shop for repair, 41; ordered out of service, 12. The state board of forestry has a locomotive inspector who works from March 1 to Dec. 1 in the forest regions of the state.

MARCH IS PROBABLE DATE OF MCGOVERN-EBERN CASE

Madison, Wis., Feb. 24.—The supreme court has adjourned until March 1. The McGovern-Ebern case was put at the foot of the calendar, and will probably be reached for argument on Saturday, March 15.

This young lady is reputed to be a member of a well-known Washington family and by reason of parental objection refuses to allow her identity to become known. Her folks don't want her to take part in the great suffrage demonstration at the national capital on March 3. She will do so, but in order that no one may know that she is in the procession she will ride heavily veiled. Some of the suffrage leaders have said that she is closely related to two well-known members of congress, but beyond that admission they will say nothing.

WATT SINGS PRAISES OF A WESTERN CITY

Tells of Wonders of Reno Where He Now Makes His Home.
Reno, Nevada, Feb. 20, 1913.

Editor Gazette:

Provided there are any discontented couples in the Bower City who are seriously thinking of taking advantage of the divorce laws out here requiring only a six months residence, they have got to hurry. The state of Nevada legislature this week passed a law making the time of residence in Reno and the state one whole year in place of six months, and by so doing it is claimed that the business here in broken hearts will be practically at a standstill. During the past three years the records show that Rock county was well represented in the Reno divorce courts, the greater portion of the plaintiffs being women who either brought suit on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment or failure to support. The warm fight that was waged here in Reno, both for and against the new law, remind one of the reports now being received from Mexico City. Three hundred residents who made up their minds years ago that Reno was worthy of more than the reputation that she was getting throughout the civilized world on this divorce scandal, worked night and day circulating papers which were signed by the best citizens of this progressive city of 15,000 population. On the day the law was taken up in the state legislature a special train from Reno conveyed hundreds of excited citizens to the state capital who paraded the streets before entering the assembly rooms of the capitol located in Carson City, Wisconsin. Of the number of fighters who made the trip, fully two hundred were women. Scores were also on hand to fight in behalf of allowing the law to remain as it always has been. This delegation claimed that to do away with the divorces in Reno would make a difference in business in this city alone of a million dollars a year.

The greatest sufferers, they claimed, would be the millinery dealers, the dressmakers, the boarding house keepers, the restaurant owners and the proprietors of the leading dry goods stores. Many apartment houses, they alleged, would be obliged to cut down on their rents. The Colonial apartment house alone is four stories high, modern and built of brick, containing eighty completely furnished apartments ranging in price from $50 to $150 per month. This building, as well as scores of others, have for the past three years had a waiting list and never a vacant apartment. The price never seemed to cut any figure with the average woman who arrived here from the east. Many of them arrived accompanied by their servants and automobiles. Six room modern furnished bungalows in the best section of the residence district rented as high as $100 per month and were hard to get at that price. Livery owners have at all times reaped a harvest and one man has made himself independent by keeping a stable containing forty head of saddle horses, for horse-back riding to the surrounding mountains was great sport to the divorcees who never seemed to have any trouble in securing escorts. In fact the men of the colony, as they were known to local residents, were always on the go seeking amusement for those used to life in New York, Boston and other eastern cities, to be set down in this mountain city for a six months' stay which always meant nearer eight months before they appeared in court for the final decree—and in nine cases out of ten they were right at the Southern Pacific depot that same evening all smiles, awaiting the eastbound limited for Chicago. The all-night restaurants in Reno, which cost fortunes to furnish, will notice a dropping off in trade for divorcees certainly made business hum in these places long after the good citizens of Janesville had retired for the night. But just like the vanishing of licensed public gambling houses in Reno, the divorcees had to go. The new law goes into effect January 1, 1914, and from now until the first of July there will certainly be some rush from all over the country on the part of wounded hearts who want to get in under the six months limit. The greater portion of the permanent population is still celebrating their victory and from all sections of the state, assurance has already been given that there will now be an influx of new citizens. The state university, which is located in Reno, will undoubtedly double in membership in the next year, now that the divorcees are soon to be a thing of the past. Four of the finest schools in this section of the west recently completed in Reno at a total cost of $500,000, only goes to show that the citizens here have these permanent improvements in view more than they have the revenue from the divorce business. Certainly a city of this size that raises $80,000 for the erection of a Y. M. C. A. building, in just ten days' time, is worthy of more than the reputation that she has acquired the world over as a divorce center. That's Reno today.

TWO MEN ARE HELD ON LARCENY CHARGE

John McCloud and Webb Peters Charged With Stealing Gold Watch From Daniel McDonald

John McCloud and Webb Peters were arraigned before Judge Field in the municipal court this morning on the charge of stealing a gold watch, worth $25, from Daniel McDonald, residing at 635 Chestnut street. McCloud expressed himself as willing to plead guilty and ready to waive his examination. His trial was set for Saturday, March 1, and in default of bail he will await his trial in jail. Peters pleaded "not guilty" and his examination was set for ten o'clock tomorrow morning. He was unable to furnish $500 bail required for his appearance.

According to Chief of Police George Appleby, Peters, who has been boarding at the McDonald home, returned there at one o'clock yesterday morning accompanied by McCloud. He had not paid his board and Mr. and Mrs. McDonald, who were awaiting him, refused to give Peters his clothes and belongings unless he paid his bill. After considerable argument Peters decided to pay, got his clothes, and went away with his companion.

Soon after the two men left, Mr. McDonald missed his watch and at seven o'clock he notified the police of the circumstances of its disappearance. All the police officers made a search for McCloud and Peters, but they were not found until about four o'clock in the afternoon, when Chief of Police Appleby placed them under arrest near the Northwestern tracks on Academy street. Both were locked up at the police station and given separate examinations. Each accused the other of the theft but the questions of the Chief brought out the fact that they had secured a room at the Railroad hotel after leaving the McDonald home, and that the watch had been hidden in a tin tobacco can in the closet. The watch was found by following these directions, but only after a large assortment of odds and ends lying on a closet shelf had been removed.

McCloud comes from Nova Scotia where his father and other near relatives reside. He has been in Janesville for only a short time and has twice been under arrest, once for frightening an aged couple while in an intoxicated condition, and last Friday for a simple charge of intoxication. The officers have reason to doubt whether he is responsible for his acts.

Peters is a well known character. When last in court he acted as his own attorney, defending himself against a charge of drunkenness. He once studied law and did detective work at Harvard during a campaign against "blind tigers." He has never before been accused of theft.

ROUGH FISH CATCH

Small Sized Hauls Made by Seiners in River Above Lake Koshkonong. Game Fish Not Biting.

Discouraging results are reported by the men who have been setting nets for rough fish in the Rock river above Lake Koshkonong, and a party of Janesville sportsmen who angled for game fish through the ice of the lake yesterday discovered to their sorrow that the fish were not biting although the bait was nibbled from the hooks with annoying frequency.

Three parties of fishermen who had hoop-nets set in the river raised them about a week ago and did not get more than 1500 fish between them. The prices for rough fish are very good at present, influenced no doubt by the Lenten demand. Buffalo fish are bringing ten cents a pound, carp seven cents, and red horse and suckers five cents a pound. The game fish are expected to start biting when the spring fresher water starts to run into the lakes and streams and the ice is about to break up, as this is noted to be their custom.

Game fish, with the exception of Canadian pike, can not be sold or transported after March 1 and up to June 1. The season for brook and rainbow trout opens on April 15. Trout large enough to be legally caught are now said to be found in Turtle Creek. Fry was planted in the stream several years ago, and another consignment was put in last year. Some trout were caught last year in the riffles near Shopiere.

AVALON

Avalon, Feb. 24.—The Ladies' society will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Dean on Wednesday, Feb. 26, instead of Thursday, as previously announced.

WILL MEET RACINE NEXT FRIDAY NIGHT

High School Debating Teams Will Decide Championship of Wisconsin in College League.

The Janesville high school affirmative and negative debating teams will remain in the race for the state championship and will in all probabilities meet the Racine teams on Friday evening of this week to decide the Wisconsin title of the Beloit college league. By defeating Beloit high school last Friday night, in percentage, the locals overcame the tie in decisions and put Beloit out of the race. The local affirmative team who debated here gained a 2 to 1 decision, and in addition, each local affirmative received in points two and two-thirds percent over his opponent. This gave the local affirmative team the lead, while at Beloit, Dearborn, Snulley and Noyes lost on decision 2 to 1 and almost tied their opponents on percentage, losing by one-third of a percent, the percentage being 86 1-3 per cent to 86 2-3 percent. The final percentage was in favor of Janesville, with an advantage of 5 percent.

The debate in the Line City was a hard one to decide as shown by the percentage. In fact, one judge was obliged to reverse his decision during the final Beloit rebuttal. The crowd was hysterical because of fear that Beloit would be defeated. Perhaps a good argument which defeated the locals at Beloit was made by Tower, in his last rebuttal, on the Monroe Doctrine. He completely vanquished this negative argument and with such force as to impress any judge. However, the local team made up of three new men, to two old men on the Beloit team, made a fine showing and much is depended on them against Racine Friday night in the local high school gymnasium. This date is undoubtedly correct, but no definite announcement has been made by the Beloit college management.

When the local negative team is debating the Racine affirmative team here, the local affirmative who debated here last week, will go to Racine to meet their negative team on the same night.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Charlotte Biglow.

Mrs. Charlotte Biglow, widow of the late James Biglow, passed away at her home, 146 Forest Park Boulevard at one o'clock this morning. She had been ill and in gradually failing health for the last five months. Mrs. Biglow was seventy-two years of age, having been born in Sussex, England, in 1841. She emigrated to the United States at the age of fourteen, and has resided in Janesville for the last forty-five years.

Her marriage to James Biglow took place twenty-two years ago. Mr. Biglow died just three years ago. Surviving the departed are a niece, Mrs. F. P. Snulley of this city with whom she made her home; and three nephews, George Pankhurst of Orfordville, William Pankhurst residing near Footville, and Ephraim Pankhurst of Albert Lea, Minn.

Funeral services will be conducted at the home at twelve o'clock tomorrow noon, the Rev. Seabury of Orfordville officiating. The remains will be taken to the Grove cemetery in the town of Center for burial.

Mrs. Henry Storm.

Funeral services for Mrs. Henry Storm were held at the home, 608 Cherry street, at o'clock yesterday afternoon and at St. John's German Lutheran church at 2:30 o'clock. The Rev. S. W. Fuchs officiated. The pall bearers were the five sons and son-in-law of Mrs. Storm, Ferdinand, A. W. Frank, Otto and Herman Storm and Arnold Duetweiler.

Alfred Peterson.

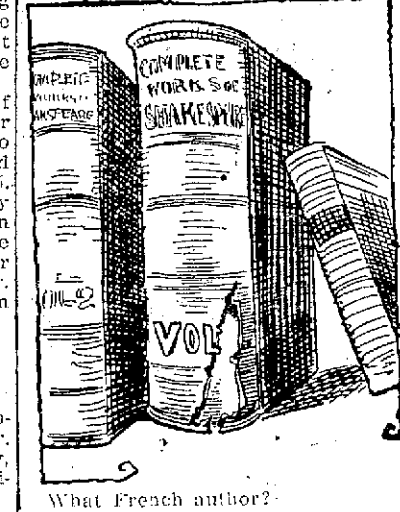

The funeral of Alfred Peterson was held from the undertaking parlors of D. Ryan & Sons at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. The remains were taken to the Norwegian Lutheran church and services were conducted there by the Rev. W. A. Johnson at 2 o'clock. Those who served as pall bearers were Nels Selgren, Robert Krahmer, Henry Feightmen, Oscar Helander, Charles Swanson, and Carl Augustin. All were members of Lodge No. 196 Mystic Workers of the World, to which fraternity the departed belonged. Burial was made in Oak Hill cemetery.

William Malby.

The funeral services for the late William Malby were conducted by the Rev. T. D. Williams, pastor of the Cargill Methodist church at the home on South Bluff street at ten o'clock this morning. Messrs. James H. Bliss, Samuel H. Locke, William Isaacs and Robert Pollack were pall bearers. The remains were taken to Beloit for burial on a special interurban car. Other pall bearers met the funeral party at Beloit.

Breaking It Gently.

"I hev come to tell yez, Mrs. Malone, that yer husband met with an accident." "An' what is it, now?" wailed Mrs. Malone. "He was over come by the heat, mum." "Over come by the heat, was he? An' how did it happen?" "He fell into the furnace oven at the foundry, mum."—Tit-Bits.

CARS ARE DITCHED IN WRECK AT SYENE

Fast Northwestern Mail Train in Serious Derailment South of Madison Early Sunday Morning.

The Northwestern's fastest mail train, number 515 which leaves Janesville for Madison and points beyond at 12:05 at night, jumped the track at Syene, a small station eight miles south of Madison, early Sunday morning. A broken rail ditched all the train except the engine, which passed safely over but when the tender struck the defective spot the six mail coaches and tender left the track and were scattered over the right-of-way for a mile. The train was speeding at a rate of seventy miles an hour and was coming down a steep grade when the accident happened. The cars were spilled in confusion several of them rolling down the side of the embankment. None of the trainmen were injured to any great extent. Conductor George Curtis of Winnetka, Ill., sprained his wrist.

This train is the pride of the Madison division and has a record of making the fastest run of any train in Wisconsin. It was coming down the grade at a high grade when the tender started to leave the track, the engine men stuck to their post and brought the locomotive to a stop some distance beyond. The cars were of the latest steel type and clearly demonstrated their superiority over the old wooden coaches for little damage was done despite the seriousness of the accident.

The cause of the derailment was undoubtedly due to a broken rail which is thought to have snapped just after the engine passed over it thus catching the flange of the wheels of the tender and being aided by the swift momentum, ditched the cars. It is also a fortunate fact that no passengers are carried on this train. Two of the Northwestern's finest passenger trains preceded the wrecked train and were carrying numerous passengers.

The Chicago wrecking crew was sent out immediately after the accident and had the wreckage cleared by Sunday afternoon. All Northwestern trains were over an hour late yesterday morning and were sent to Jefferson Junction and came down to the Wisconsin division in Janesville. This wreck is the worst that this company has had for some time previous and is thought to have been caused by the recent change of weather which causes rails to expand and contract to such an extent that high speed is dangerous.

company that if they refused to agree they would call a strike.

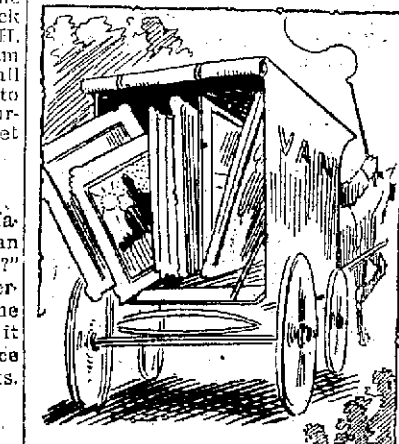

Acts of Violence.

At this stage when a strike was imminent the government says the telegraph company on October 15 discharged employees who were members of the union and supplied their places with non-members. Threats against officers and employees of the telegraph company immediately followed, it is charged, and acts of violence began to be committed in Chicago against the company's property whereby telegraph lines were cut, injured or destroyed by the use of acids or other means interfering with and crippling the company's service.

These alleged acts of depredation said to have been repeated almost daily during the entire period since the discharge of the former employees has been performed or directed or connived at it is charged by the defendant Healy and Boyle and others.

Company Powerless.
The telegraph company, the government continues, has been powerless to prevent frequently occurring acts of violence committed usually at night on the 35 miles of cables hung along the elevated railroad lines in Chicago or placed in underground conduits. These cables used for the transmission of interstate messages it is pointed out are particularly open to attack and difficult to guard.

Unless relief is afforded by the courts the petition maintains that these alleged acts of violence will continue. The government bill signed by Attorney General Wickersham and his assistant James A. Fowler, was filed by United States Attorney Wilkerson of Chicago.

FORMER CITY LIBRARIAN HAS IMPORTANT POSITION

Miss Lydia Kinsley on Committee to Select Books for Clark Working Girls' Home in Los Angeles.

Miss Lydia Kinsley, formerly librarian of the Janesville public library, has been appointed a member of a committee to select and catalog a library for the large working girls' home recently donated to the city of Los Angeles by Senator Clark. Miss Kinsley was obliged to resign her position as librarian of the Lane Medical Library at San Francisco because of eye trouble. Her present position is a less exacting one in that she is allowed to choose her own hours. She will accept a permanent position as soon as her eye trouble is remedied.

has been the custom of the directors to meet two or three times a month for luncheon, each director paying for his own meal, at which time matters of interest were discussed. Those present today were: H. L. McNamara, the retiring vice president, who presided in the absence of A. P. Lovejoy; Carl O. Buchholz, George S. Parker, H. H. Bliss, T. O. Howe, Louis Levy, H. M. Dedrick, A. J. Gibbons, Joseph Connors, Edward Ameripohl, F. E. Lane, and James Fifield, the newly elected president. A. P. Lovejoy, Frank Jackman and N. L. Carle were the other members of the directorate who were absent. ELECT BELOIT MAN TO HEAD CARRIERS

Frank Hart Chosen President at Meeting of Rock County Rural Mail Carriers' Association.

Frank Hart of Beloit was elected president of the Rock County Rural Mail Carriers' Association held at the postoffice in this city Saturday afternoon. He succeeded J. A. Palmer, a Janesville carrier, in this position. Other officers elected were: Vice president, F. H. Gifford of Milwau; secretary, H. A. Palmer of Janesville; treasurer, Fred Wille of Edgerton. Delegates to the state convention of Wisconsin Rural Mail Carriers' Association to be held in this city, May 30 and 31 were: A. L. Gridley, E. Hart, F. W. Persons, A. L. Perkins and H. A. Palmer. Considerable time was devoted to a discussion of plans for the entertainment of the delegates to the state convention and the arrangement of a program. Messrs. Palmer, Gridley, Smith, Heller and Williams were appointed a committee on arrangements.

MAY EXTEND SEWER ON GALENA STREET

Board of Public Works to Propose Extension East From Park Street to City Council.

Extension of the sewer on Galena street from Park avenue to a point 250 feet easterly will be recommended to the city council by the Board of Public Works tomorrow. The board held an informal meeting Saturday afternoon to discuss plans for street improvement. It is probable that very little sewer work will be done as the most important and pressing extensions were completed last year. One of the earliest pieces of work to be undertaken in the spring will be the redecking of the Milwaukee street bridge. The plans prepared last fall may be modified to a slight extent in order to effect economies in the cost of construction. Quotations on creosoted block and plank will be advertised for within a short time. Curb and gutters will be put in on a number of blocks but plans are not yet perfected.

PLAN ELECTRIC ROAD BELOIT TO DELAVAN

French Capital Backing Interurban Project According to Reports Coming From Beloit.

With the Bank of France at Paris backing the project, work will be begun in the spring surveying the right-of-way for an interurban road that will run between Beloit and Delavan, according to authoritative announcement which comes from Beloit.

For months the work of mapping out a tentative route has been going on quietly and carefully, until now it is possible to give out the exact course the road will follow between Beloit and the pretty little lake town to the northeast. Representatives of the company, which is made up of Indianapolis, Ind., capitalists have been in Beloit and Delavan several times in conference with the business men of both cities until now the project has advanced so far that actual work is announced for the early spring. City officials of Delavan have given assurances that if the road can be brought to the city limits of their town the city of Delavan will take care of the work in the limits.

The money with which the road is to be financed is said to be from France as it has been discovered by the rich men of that country that they can get far larger and quicker returns from their cash by investing it in the United States than they can at home. The same persons who are behind the project are also interested in several other public utility properties in other portions of the country.

It is proposed to erect the depot for the Beloit terminus of the proposed line, which will also be the headquarters for transacting the dispatching other business matters, in West Broad street, just east of the Cleland hitch barn, between that building and the Salvation Army temple.

Proceeding up Broad street the road will turn north onto Park avenue, thence north to the joint switch, which it will cross thence east to the linen mills, then north to the line where the Shopiere road meets the Janesville road, then on the Shopiere road to Shopiere, thence easterly to Clinton, and from there to Delavan.

"There is no question," said a prominent Beloit citizen this afternoon, "but what the road will go through. All the preliminary steps have been taken and all that is necessary is to start the actual work. It is certain that such a road as planned will be a money maker from the start for it will tap one of the richest farming countries in the world and will also afford a ready means of getting to Delavan in the summer when the lake season is in full swing. The promoters of the line are enthusiastic over the prospect and believe they have found a road that will be a winner from the start. Property values along the route will of course advance quite materially and the farming communities through which the line will pass will be greatly benefited."

WERE WEDDED FIFTY YEARS AGO SUNDAY

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Snyder Celebrate Golden Wedding at Home of Daughter, Mrs. Fatzinger.

Mr. and Mrs. Snyder, 417 North Washington street, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Sunday at the home of their daughter, Mrs. George Fatzinger, 413 Racine street.

The house was decorated with gold en hearts and ribbon streamers and in the dining room the table decorations were especially elaborate and attractive. All of their children were present for the wedding dinner with the exception of one son, Frank, who lives in Canada, and a daughter, Mary, of Louisville, Ky.

Those present were: Fred Snyder and family of Footville, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Snyder of Center, Glenn Snyder and family, Charles Snyder and family, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Fatzinger of Green, and Mrs. Fitzgibbon. All of this city and Mrs. H. O. Berg of Milwaukee.

Mr. Snyder was presented with a gold-headed cane and his wife with a gold ring. Mr. and Mrs. Snyder have spent their wedded life in Rock county, the past eighteen years in Janesville.

ALBANY HIGH SCHOOL FIVE WINS FAST GAME FRIDAY

Friday night the Albany high school team won their eighth victory of the season by defeating Hillsboro. The latter team is looked upon as the strongest in the northern half of the southern district, having never been beaten before. The game was one of the closest that Albany has had, the score being 15-12, the low score being due to the fact that Albany could not locate the basket, although Atkinson and Smiley shot four and five times in succession.

The Albany team plans to attend the tournament to be held in Platteville, March 14 and 15, if Wood recovers from an injury to his knee received last night.

Have Unusual Call: The aerial ladder truck and a number of firemen were called to the Woolen Mills yesterday for duty of an unusual character. Some of the guy wires of the huge steel smokestack had become loosened and the stack leaned over so far in consequence that it threatened to fall to the ground. The firemen straightened the stack and made fast the guy wires.

CALENDAR IS CALLED IN CIRCUIT COURT

Large Amount of Court Work For February Term Indicated in Cases Set For Trial.

About twenty-eight cases on the jury calendar and eighteen on the court calendar for the February term of the circuit court in Rock county, makes up a more than usual amount of court business for this time of the year. Judge Grimm called the calendar in the court chambers this afternoon before the members of the bar. From the statement made by the attorneys it was evident that the jury cases which will be tried beginning the week of March 3rd, will consume three or four weeks time.

The $50,000 libel suit of Ingalls, vs. Worthington et al. may be continued to another term on motion of counsel according to a statement made at the time of calling the calendar. Judge Grimm stated that he would give opportunity for all motions following the meeting of the Rock county bar association which was held immediately after the calling of the calendar.

Eight cases were added to the jury calendar in addition to those appearing on the printed list: Libby vs. Schoenfeldt; Hyde and Brittain bank vs. Racine Effect Knitting Co.; Larsen vs. Voseley; Taylor vs. Clark; Kaufman vs. Olsen; Kull vs. Beloit Traction Co.; and Nelson vs. Hogan. The last two cases are at present awaiting the motion of attorneys.

The three cases placed on the day calendar are: Mary Griffin vs. Rockford and Interurban Co.; Anthony I. Schmidt vs. Rockford and Interurban Company; and Kull vs. Beloit Traction Company.

L. E. Gettle of Edgerton, offered a short sketch of the life of the late J. P. Towne of Edgerton which he read in commemoration. Several attorneys including Judge Grimm and Sale spoke briefly in appreciation of Mr. Towne's character.

John Cunningham, president of the Bar Association, called the meeting of the society to order. Aside from the election of officers there was little business of importance. Frank W. Fisher was admitted to membership of the association. A. E. Matheson offered a motion that the association endorse that part of the bill 1038 now before the legislature providing an increase in the salaries of circuit judges from $5,000 to $6,000. This was passed without opposition.

Jesse Earle, chairman of the bar association committee, announced that the annual banquet would be held at the Myers House this evening and that 65 were expected. Dinner will be served at seven-thirty after which Attorney Burr W. Jones of Madison will give the address on "The Recall of Judges."

Is An Old Landmark: The old house situated at the corner of Wall and North Jackson street, now being torn down, was the first house built north of Milwaukee street, 65 years ago. This house was built and occupied by Samuel Harlow and his son-in-law, S. G. Belton, and was the only house built in that locality for a number of years.

ARMY MAN'S WIFE, WHO'S TO BE GRAND MARSHALL OF SUFFRAGE PAGEANT, IS EXPERT HORSEWOMAN AND VERY POPULAR

Mrs. Richard Coke Burleson in her inaugural ball gown, and as she stands by the horse she will ride in suffrage parade.

Mrs. Richard Coke Burleson, the popular, athletic young army officer's wife who will be grand marshal of the suffrage parade in Washington on March 3, is a charming woman and exceedingly popular. She was chosen to lead the parade not only because of the additional reason that she is an expert horsewoman, but for long taken an active part in the suffrage movement. One of the accompanying pictures shows as woman.

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

THE VALUE OF GOOD TEMPER. Allen G. Thurman, "the old Roman," gave as the first rule of conduct for a young man about to enter public life this:

"Keep a civil tongue in your head!" That is a first rule for other things besides public life.

Good temper is a business asset. The winner smiles. The loser frowns. Don't look like a loser.

A grouchy frightens away dollars as well as friends. Don't be a grouchy.

Your tongue is your advance agent. Don't permit the advance agent to queer your show.

There is an old story of a man who was barred from a club because he forgot to say, "Thank you" to a man who held open a door to let him pass. That tale had wide circulation, and it is safe to say, few who read it ever afterward made a similar mistake.

It is a little thing to say, "Please" for a request or "Thank you" for a service rendered, but such little things go a long way in the success of life. It is not so small a thing to hold your temper in a difficult situation, but it goes quite as far. There are people who observe these trifles and remember them either for or against their author.

"Keep a civil tongue in your head." The essence of courtesy is thoughtfulness for others. It is the Golden Rule in practice.

Learn to put yourself in the place of others and to regulate your words and deeds accordingly.

Being amiable and considerate will finally become a habit.

Every salesman is schooled in speaking civilly. He has to be. The soft answer that turneth away wrath is with him not alone an ethical precept, but a business requirement.

The man who never raises his voice in anger is now counted the ideal business man.

There are those of exceptional attainments who win even with bad tempers, but they succeed despite this fault, not because of it.

Let your temper be expended in the energy with which you do things, not in hasty words.

"Keep a civil tongue in your head."

PROMINENT FACTOR IN CAPITAL SOCIETY

Mrs. Hoke Smith.

Mrs. Hoke Smith, wife of the Georgia senator, will probably become one of the leaders in Washington official society when President Wilson assumes office. She is already well known and popular and has had much experience in the social life of the capital. She was a member of the cabinet circle during the term of office of President Cleveland.

PARCEL POST

HOW TO USE IT.

(The new parcel post law includes some perplexing provisions. The Gazette is from day to day presenting a concise explanation of some of the more important sections of the law).

Ink powders, pepper, snuff, or other similar powders, not explosive, or any similar pulverized dry substance, not poisonous, may be sent in the mails when inclosed in the manner prescribed for liquids or when inclosed in cases made of metal, wood, papier-mache, or similar material, in such manner as to render impossible the escape of any of the contents. Flour of all kinds must be put up in such manner as to prevent the package breaking or cracking or the flour being scattered in the mails.

Sealed original packages of medicines and such articles as soaps, tobacco, pills, tablets, etc., put up in fixed quantities by the manufacturer, will be accepted for mailing when properly wrapped. Fragile articles, such as millinery, toys, musical instruments, etc., must be securely packed and the parcel stamped or labeled "fragile," thereby insuring the greatest possible care in handling.

The Gazette Parcel Post Map gives the zone limits, rates and all the provisions of the law. It is a good Geographical map of the United States and for a quick comprehension of the parcel post law is invaluable. This map is now on sale at 25 cents, if called for at the Gazette office, or 35 cents by mail. The map is FREE if you pay one year's subscription in advance to the Daily Gazette.

A NEW "BIG BUSINESS" DEVELOPMENT.

WORKING FOR TRADE CENTRALIZATION IN THE CONGESTED CENTERS OF POPULATION.

Copyrighted 1912, by Edgar Taylor Wheelock.

Centralization of trade and congestion of population are two of the evils that menace the very existence of free government. They multiply the social, political and economic problems that cry aloud for solution.

Newspaper and magazine writers, as well as political leaders have been calling attention to what they are pleased to call "Big Business" and "The Interests," titles used by them to designate combinations of capital for the purpose of controlling manufacturing and transportation lines of industry.

What Makes a Good Town

It is a universally conceded fact that a well-distributed population, residing in prosperous communities of medium size and engaged in diversified industries, enjoys peculiar advantages over the people inhabiting congested centers.

But "The Interests" and "Big Business" arraigned before the bar of public opinion by the magazine publicists are not the only agencies that are working for the undoing of our social system. The catalogue and mail order retail traders are doing their share.

A Multimillionaire Concern

Take one of the large catalogue houses of Chicago as an example of what mail order trading means to the small towns of the country.

This corporation is capitalized at $50,000,000, of which $10,000,000 is preferred and $40,000,000 common stock, in shares of $100 each.

The preferred stock draws 7 per cent dividends; the common stock takes the balance of the profits. The preferred stock recently was quoted on the market at $125, the common stock at $220.50 a share. It is reported that this company did a business of $82,000,000 last year and paid a dividend of its common stock of 15 per cent.

The profits made by the company and the dividends paid, on the stock explain the premium paid by investors for the stock. These profits were made from customers who buy "cheap goods" from the corporation.

Do Nothing for the Town

What do these corporations give in return for the money they are taking from the local communities? Cheap goods that are seldom worth the prices paid for them.

They pay no taxes to the local communities they are bleeding of their capital.

They sell for cash. In times of sickness, financial reverses, or misfortune of any kind, their doors are closed to customers who may be embarrassed.

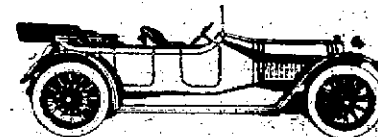

They contribute nothing to local charities, to the support of churches, schools or newspapers. Not one dollar of their money ever goes into public or private improvements that beautify and make the local towns more attractive and better to live in.

They bear no share of the cost of police and fire protection. They merely draw, draw, draw the money from the towns, and put nothing back. They are leeches that suck the life-blood of the communities where their patrons live.

This feature of the "Big Business" evil is respectfully recommended to the intelligent consideration of mail order buyers.

"THE ROSE MAID." Werba & Luescher's delightful sister opera to their "Spring Maid" has proven one of the really big successes of Chicago's current theatrical season. And although previous bookings have forced a limited engagement of this delightful piece, it looks as if the engagement will have to be extended. MYERS THEATRE

P. L. MYERS, Owner and Manager

Janesville, Wis., Feb. 24, 1913.

Gazette Printing Co., Adv. Dept., City.

Gentlemen: I want to take this occasion to express my appreciation of the Gazette as an advertising medium and to illustrate by concrete example on what I base my enthusiasm: Saturday evening, February 22nd, there was inserted a 10-inch advertisement for "The Rose Maid" which appears at the Myers Theatre March 5th. There was no other advertisement of any sort, poster, window display, or bill board out, yet from this single insertion of the comparatively small space, I received in the Monday morning's mail approximately $150 worth of orders for seats for "The Rose Maid" performance from Janesville, Edgerton, Evansville, Milton, Milton Jct., Beloit, Whitewater and Footville. I have increased the size of space for Monday's issue of the Gazette to twenty inches and believe there will be another record of packed house for this splendid performance.

Very truly yours,

PETER L. MYERS.

THERE IS NOTHING LIKE AN ACTUAL DEMONSTRATION TO POINT OUT THE VALUE OF AN ADVERTISING MEDIUM AND MR. MYERS' EXPERIENCE WITH THE SINGLE INSERTION OF "THE ROSE MAID" ADVERTISING CLEARLY SHOWS THE WIDE RANGE OF THE GAZETTE DISTRIBUTION AND THE WAY IN WHICH GAZETTE READERS SCAN ITS COLUMNS AND ANSWER ITS ANNOUNCEMENTS WHEN THESE ANNOUNCEMENTS APPEAL TO THEM.

THE POLICY OF THE GAZETTE IN GUARDING ITS COLUMNS AS CAREFULLY AS POSSIBLE AGAINST FRAUDULENT ADVERTISING EFFECTS THE LEGITIMATE ANNOUNCEMENTS AND CREATES CONFIDENCE AMONG THE READERS IN WHATEVER APPEARS IN ITS COLUMNS.

FOURTEEN LIBRARIES SUPPLY ROCK COUNTY

Public Library of Rock County Best Accommodated With Reading Material of Any Section Of State.

(Special to the Gazette.)

Madison, Wis., Feb. 24.—Library facilities in Rock county are better than in any county in the state and there is no excuse for no one to complain of the inaccessibility of reading material according to the report of the Wisconsin Free Library commission. In addition to seven public libraries which is more than any other county in the state, there are seven state traveling libraries.

That a vast growth in interest in books by rural communities of Wisconsin has marked recent years is a deduction gathered from a report issued by the commission, which shows that 609 communities were served with traveling libraries in the fiscal year 1911-1912, as compared with 295 communities in 1909-1910. This number included 179 new and resumed stations. Over 1,000 requests for books were filed.

The state traveling libraries, which are small collections of books sent from the office of the commission in the capital to various communities all over the state, contained at last report 7,849 volumes. Thirty-volume libraries are sent to isolated hamlets in northern Wisconsin; the 35-volume libraries are sent to the regular stations of average size. They are kept for six months and then returned to Madison in exchange for another box. The only expense is freight charges. Smaller public libraries having inadequate book funds may rent 100-volume libraries for $12 a year. German, Yiddish, Norwegian, Danish and Polish traveling libraries, containing 25 volumes each are sent out, and small groups of Bohemian, French, German, Swedish and other books for specific nationalities are often sent with the English-speaking libraries to settlements of foreigners.

The traveling libraries are intended for farming communities and small villages not enjoying public library privileges. To secure one, it is necessary that ten responsible citizens make application to the commission and select a responsible person to care for the library.

During the last two years the commission has sent out 2,800 boxes of books and magazines to communities where without them there would be little or nothing for them to read.

In two counties—Rock and Florence there are no public libraries but traveling libraries are maintained. In addition to the state traveling libraries sent from Madison, many counties sustain "county traveling libraries," which are under the state commission's supervision.

If your stomach is in a continuous revolt—if you can't get it regulated, please, for your sake, try Diapepsin. It's so needless to have a bad stomach—make your next meal a favorite food meal, then take a little Diapepsin. There will not be any distress—eat without fear. It's because Pape's Diapepsin "really does" regulate weak, out-of-order stomachs that gives it its millions of sales annually.

Get a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store. It's the quickest, surest stomach relief and cure known. It acts almost like magic—it is a scientific, harmless and pleasant preparation which truly belongs in every home.

PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN

Time! In five minutes you will wonder what became of the Gas, Sourness and Indigestion.

Sour, gassy, upset stomach, indigestion, heartburn, dyspepsia; when the food you eat ferments into gases and stubborn lumps; your head aches and you feel sick and miserable, that's when you realize the magic in Pape's Diapepsin. It makes such misery vanish in five minutes.

The very newest thing is "a really sure way for doing dental work without hurting the patient."

We have long been able to remove the pain of extracting teeth.

But now at last comes the painless drilling and filling of teeth.

The Dentists from New York to Los Angeles, Cal., are fairly wild over the discovery and are buying the outfits faster than Mr. Clark, the inventor in Chicago, can make them up.

I have been using this wonderful method for about three months in my office.

H. L. McNAMARA

If It Is Good Hardware, McNamara Has It.

You Can Take a New Lease of Life, Why Don't You Do It?

Many are suffering, are merely living from day to day without the pleasures that would be their's if they had perfect health. Many are hoping against hope for relief without really trying to get better, many are just feeling poorly, many lack ambition for everything and anything, simply because there is a drain on their vitality somewhere and they do not know where it is.

Some have taken medicines, and drugs and poisons, others have gone to Doctors for pills, etc., all of which treat symptoms, but get no relief. And there is no wonder they don't get well. The way to get well, the way to health and happiness is to get at the cause of the disease and remove it. No one will dispute these facts. There is plenty of convincing evidence on every side of you.

The wonderful Science of Chiropractic, a science of truths points the way to perfect health, and it is the only science that goes directly at the cause of disease.

It is the only science that has a record of 98 per cent of the patients getting well.

Read these convincing records. You, too, can be made well if you suffer from sickness of any kind. Come and see me at once. Nothing is gained by delay and your condition becomes constantly worse.

Janesville, Wis., Feb. 2, 1913.

To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing this testimonial in appreciation of the wonderful work J. N. Imlay, the local Chiropractor did. Up to the time of my call at his office I was a slave to the medicine bottle. In my years of ailment I have taken patent medicine and the best of physicians have prescribed for me without benefit.

The physicians told me I was on the verge of Bright's Disease. With thoughts of this dreaded disease gradually taking my life, I was very nervous, had almost constant headaches, and weak eyes. Giving up all hopes, after trying all forms of medical and drugless treatments, a friend told me to call on J. N. Imlay.

It is with the greatest pleasure for me to tell those who may read this testimonial that I am now free from the above mentioned disorders, have gained fifteen pounds in weight and feel like a new man. It is my sincere wish that anyone suffering as I did will call on the Chiropractor and have his health restored permanently.

Yours Very Truly, (Name on Request.)

To Whom It May Concern:

"I am 49 years of age. I suffered 4 years ago with appendicitis and the doctor said that if I would have my appendix removed, I would get well. He removed the appendix all right or at least he claims he did, but I learned to my sorrow that I got worse than better, for it left me in such a nervous condition that I would drop down anywhere I chanced to be at times and I could not sleep at all or stand still. After suffering for 4 years and trying several other doctors without getting any help I was prevailed upon by friends to go and try J. N. Imlay, the Chiropractor, and now I'm glad I did for after the first adjustment I could sleep all night, which I have not done for 4 years and I have not had a fall for a week and the nervousness is almost gone and I can't help but think he is going to bring me out all right. I'm giving this testimonial, not for personal gain, for the Chiropractors but to warn others who may be led into the same trap I was. Don't submit to an operation until you have called on the Chiropractor for he will locate the cause of your trouble in your spine and by removing the cause your disease or trouble will leave you and he will also tell you whether or not he can do anything for you before he will take your case. I cannot find words to express my feeling for the good the Chiropractor has already done for me."

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat
BY RUTH CAMERON

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

"SOMETIME will you take space in your column to tell me your opinion of the following?" writes a letter friend. "I have to refuse courteous requests, but I shall have to refuse this one because I do not feel quite sure what my opinion is. Perhaps some of my other letter-friends have more decided opinions and can help the lady out."

This is "the following": "Two women whom we will call Mrs. A. and Mrs. B. start married life at the same time with the same advantages of education, general capabilities and social standing. Their husbands receive exactly the same salary, but it is the general opinion that Mr. A. is the better man of the two."

"Fifteen years from the time of their marriage Mr. and Mrs. A. are the parents of seven children, healthy, robust youngsters who decidedly show lack of good breeding. Mrs. A. is a bent, weary woman with the reputation of being the hardest worker in the neighborhood. She washes, irons, mends, sews, bakes and, in fact, does all the work for the family of nine. Their living expenses are so high that she cannot afford to hire help. Mr. and Mrs. A. have no social life. They are never seen out in the evening anywhere together. Mr. A. seems to be to get away from his wife and 'kids' as much as possible in order to pass away the time in a saloon or hotel bar room. Mrs. A. has no more charms for him, it is plain to be seen."

"Now in the meanwhile, Mr. and Mrs. B. are the parents of one child, a well bred, manly little fellow the same age as Mr. and Mrs. A.'s oldest child. But Mr. and Mrs. B. have purposely confined the number of their children to one. They own the house they live in. They could afford to hire help if they needed it. They are giving their son a good education. Mrs. B. is doing much charitable work in a quiet way and brightens the homes of many poor, sick people. She and her husband often enjoy an evening at the theatre or at some good entertainment and their devotion to each other grows greater every year. Of Mrs. B. it can be said that she scatters sunshine wherever she goes."

"Now, Miss Cameron, what I want to know is which of these women do you think is the more worthy of respect and admiration—the worn, weary mother of seven unruly children and the wife of a now unloving husband, or the cheerful wife who has so skillfully kept her husband's love and managed his finances and has brought into the world one lone child?"—Suffragette.

One wonders, as one concludes this very interesting letter, whether the persons of whom the writer speaks are real folks or just made up to illustrate her views.

One also wonders if these two couples are really typical.

And, then again, one wonders—if one is anything like me—what is the right of this serious question. Somehow as I sit here thinking it over, there comes to me a fine sentence that a good man once spoke (not in regard to this matter): "In choosing between the right and the expedient," he said, "I have never chosen the right without finding it after all, expedient."

The New Language We Are Making

"Did you ever stop to think that we are living in an age when a new phraseology is being formed?" asked Phoebe, thoughtfully, of the little group around the study fire.

"Gracious no!" replied Marjorie. "That sounds interesting. One never realizes that history is making now just as it did in the colorful past. What sort of language-history are we making, Phoebe? Is it red?"

"No," laughed Phoebe. "It is scientific." Marjorie sighed. "Then it is awfully dull."

"Well, it isn't exactly hilarious. But nevertheless, it is sort of interesting. Mother always says, 'light the lights.' But really we don't light lights any longer. We turn on the light, or switch it on."

"That's so," said Marjorie. "I thought I hadn't thought of it. And we don't sweep any more. We vacuum clean."

Phoebe nodded. "Just so. Father doesn't write letters. He dictates them. We don't hitch up the horse, we get out the car."

"Nor do we make a fire any more," went on Marjorie. "We turn on the steam. We don't put on an iron to heat. We turn on the current."

"The fact of the matter is," said Phoebe, "we are getting so we don't do things ourselves at all, but power and machinery do them for us. wonder if that means we will lose the use of our hands."

"Hardly! But we'll probably develop our brains. And that is in accord with evolution, isn't it?"

"There's another thing about this," broke in one of the girls who had been listening. "That is worth thinking about, too. You'll get so you can tell something about a person's age by his language."

"Our words will be somewhat like geologic specimens, and will tell the period we belong to, won't they?" said Phoebe, meditatively. "Goodness gracious! We'll have to be careful, if we don't want to be dated as ancient."

"Hereafter," said Marjorie, "my vocabulary will be strictly scientific and up to date. No lightning bolts, and making fires for me. My language will be absolutely of the press-the-button order."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Things Worth Knowing. To Make Coal Bucket Last a Long Time. Crumple up a sheet of newspaper, place in bottom of bucket, letting it stand an inch or more up around the sides. We all know the bottom gives out first and the paper breaks the fall while the coal is shoveled in.

Tan Shoe Cleaner. Take milk and a nice clean cloth rub over shoe; it is not necessary to have the shoe polished when new. Milk will always keep them looking just like new. It takes off all the dirt and does not leave any spots.

We Keep Two Small 5-cent Paint Brushes. One to grease bread pans, also the bread immediately after it is baked, waffle irons or anything you want to grease. The other one is for water—say for wetting the edge of the pie (lower) crust before putting on upper, to press two edges together, thus preventing juice from seeping out.

When Making Jams and Preserves. try stirring with pancake turner, you can get to the bottom of the pan more easily.

Homemade Blueing. Here is a recipe I have not found in the Household Suggestions yet, and know everyone can and must use, and some people can make pin money out of it by selling it.

Blueing for washing: One ounce prussian blue, one-fourth ounce oxalic acid, three pints soft water. Bottle and it will be ready for washing use.

The Table. Tomato Soup—One can tomatoes, one small onion, salt and pepper; to taste, one tablespoon butter, one cup sweet milk, one tablespoon flour to thicken.

Veal Loaf.—Three pounds veal, one-half pound pork; chop fine; 16 crackers rolled fine, four eggs well beaten, six tablespoons melted butter, one tablespoon salt, one teaspoon pepper, one-half cup sweet milk. Make into loaf and bake with water and butter. Bake slowly three hours.

Escalloped Corn.—One can corn or the same amount of fresh green corn. Alternate layers of corn and cracker crumbs, dash of pepper and salt, and bits of butter until all corn is used. Bake three-fourth hour. Two or three spoonfuls of sweet cream are an improvement.

Tea Bräu.—Sift three teaspoons baking powder in one pint flour, add one-half teaspoon salt. Rub into this one tablespoon butter or lard, one cup sweet milk. Roll out about three-fourths of an inch thick, cut with small biscuit cutter and bake 15 minutes.

Sour Cream Dressing.—One-half pint double cream (sour); whip until stiff, add one tablespoon lemon juice, two tablespoons sugar.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am 21 years of age and intend to get married shortly. Lately my sweetheart told me she was absolutely unwilling to cook and that I had to do it. As my experience in the art of cooking as yet has not gone far beyond boiled eggs, we decided to ask your advice and to follow the same.

A POOR COOK. A man should not be expected to do the family cooking. He can't do that and do his duty earning the family living.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS
BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Must one have a license to sell medicine of his own make? Where can it be bought and what does it cost?

No.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Will you please give me a recipe for hominy?

MRS. S. Take 1 teaspoon baking soda to each quart of shelled corn. Cook over slow fire until outside of corn commences to peel off. Wash in cold water and don't be afraid to rub it. Put back on stove with fresh water, let simmer about one hour and wash again. Continue to do this until all of outside and hearts come off. It should happen to taste of soda, let stand in cold water until taste is gone.

As my experience in the art of cooking as yet has not gone far beyond boiled eggs, we decided to ask your advice and to follow the same.

A POOR COOK. A man should not be expected to do the family cooking. He can't do that and do his duty earning the family living.

If the woman doesn't want to cook or can't cook, hire a cook, or board. However, if your sweetheart really loves you, she will be willing to try and please you, and if she goes about it intelligently, in the right spirit, she will soon learn to love this household duty.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Please give recipe for chocolate pie. MRS. A. B.

Grate small half cup bitter chocolate and put into pan with 1 cup hot water. Take butter size of an egg, 1 cup sugar and beaten yolks of 2 eggs, 2 tbs. cornstarch dissolved in a little water, 1 tsp. vanilla. Mix well and cook, then put into baked crust with the whites of the eggs on top and brown in oven.

(1)—On the left side. (2)—Yes.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—Do you think a girl who blushes for a fellow she doesn't like, is a fool? I can't help it. I don't think about myself—I can't stop. I never speak to him. What can I do to him? (2)—Do you think my girl friend and I are doing right? She is 17 and I 16. We don't put up with fellows at all like the rest of our girl friends do. We never go

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—Would you please make a fat person thin? Tell me how to use it. (2)—A young man comes to my home very often and I love him very much—not to marry, but for company, because I have no boy friend. How can I get him so he will keep my company? I am sure he likes me.

SWEET-SOUR. (1)—Fill the bathtub for your bath as usual, then put into it 2 or 2½ lbs. Epsom salts, according to quantity of water. Bathe in this. Some people take this bath every day, but it takes away one's strength to do that. Twice a week or every other day would be better. You must not eat fat-producing foods and take plenty of exercise if you would be thin.

(2)—You wouldn't want to be selfish and keep him away from other girls, would you, unless you love each other and wish to marry? Just be nice and modest and friendly and he will come as often as he can.

Planning Meals.

The past few weeks I have been living in my daughter's home in New York City, planning the meals for four, including a child six years old, and doing the marketing. This I have considered fortunate and unfortunate. Fortunately that I had an accident and have been obliged to rest and remain away from the regular work which I enjoy so much, and fortunate in this fact, that it is good for me to put myself in the housekeeper's place once in a while. Plan the meals, the marketing and have opportunity of realizing very forcibly some of the problems in the home.

New York woman who writes for magazines on household management told me recently that she found the average woman "just hared the word system." That may be true, but well-regulated, orderly management of a house and cooking resolves itself into system, no matter whether they like the word or not. We all agree in this home that the work is very much lessened by regular methods of planning our work and knowing what to do when we do it.

In the first place we looked over the kitchen to see if there were right relationships of stove, table, refrigerator and to see that there was no corner or steps wasted doing the work. We found many steps were taken going to a drawer for spoons, knives, forks, can-opener, etc. So a strip was put over the worktable, brass rods screwed in and all possible utensils hung within easy reach of table and stove. That made a good start. Then after breakfast each morning we take down from the shelf our pad and pencil and make out three meals in advance, writing down just as I am going to give them to you, looking through the refrigerator to see that nothing is wasted, and adding any fresh supplies necessary.

We began planning the meals on Saturday so this included the meals and marketing up to and including breakfast Monday morning. As each meal was written down on another slip of paper was noted just what was necessary to be purchased for the entire time and nothing was added to that list when I reached the market just because I happened to see something which looked good. Not more than ten or fifteen minutes do not find the prices no marketing very much different from back home. I find all merchants like to have the housekeeper know what she wants and are perfectly willing to answer all questions I may ask.

Just one thing more—when the meals are planned, dinner breakfast and luncheon, and the order done, plan just how much time it will take to prepare the dinner that night, get as much ready in advance as possible and then forget it. Yes, I mean it. That kind of planning is just what makes for system and a house can not be well managed without it.

Sand Cure for Fatigue. One of the most efficacious cures for fatigue from overwork consists in walking barefoot in sand. The nerves of the sole and heel are slightly irritated by coming in contact with the grains and accelerate the circulation of the blood in all parts of the body. The effect produced is highly invigorating. Besides this, the monotony of an ample extent of yellow sand exercises a soporific effect on the brain which induces sleep.—Harper's Weekly.

Cheesecloth Better Than Glass. Cheesecloth coverings for plants, a farmer tells us in an agricultural paper, are superior to glass for they let the moisture through. The white shelter has a forcing effect, and also keeps out insects. Cucumbers from vines thus sheltered were gathered two weeks earlier than usual this season, and the enthusiastic experimenter is planning for large results next year through the use of these cheesecloth protectors.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—Would you please make a fat person thin? Tell me how to use it. (2)—A young man comes to my home very often and I love him very much—not to marry, but for company, because I have no boy friend. How can I get him so he will keep my company? I am sure he likes me.

SWEET-SOUR. (1)—Fill the bathtub for your bath as usual, then put into it 2 or 2½ lbs. Epsom salts, according to quantity of water. Bathe in this. Some people take this bath every day, but it takes away one's strength to do that. Twice a week or every other day would be better. A GOOD STOMACH THE KEY TO SUCCESS.

That a good stomach is the key to success is the opinion of Mr. Joseph Choate, the eminent lawyer, who is remarkably active at eighty. "Success," says Mr. Choate, "rests everywhere on the same foundation. It is the same old story of the sound mind and the honest heart in the sound body. The sound body is at the bottom of it all, and the stomach is the key of it all. If that goes back on you, you might as well throw up the sponge. Sleep without worry must cherish it all the time." If twice as much energy as necessary is used for the digestion and elimination of food, there is a corresponding waste of energy that might be used in work, in the enjoyment and prolongation of life and in warding off disease. And it is safe to say that the average person consumes more than twice as much energy as is necessary for digestion and elimination, by wrong food selection.

GOOD IN SOCIALISM IS SEEN IN RESULTS

REV. J. W. LAUGHLIN GIVES
THIRD OF SERIES OF SER-MONS ON VITAL SUB-JECT.

HAS CHRISTIAN AIM

Many Modern Reforms in Europe and United States Trace Their Origins to Socialistic Influences.

Tracing many of the reforms in Europe and America to the influence of socialism and attributing to the movement changes, both social and political, Rev. J. W. Laughlin gave the third of a most interesting series of sermons on the subject of "Socialism" at the Presbyterian church Sunday morning. He spoke in part as follows:

"I wish to speak this morning on 'The Good in Socialism,' and in doing so I shall ask you to consider the goal at which socialism is aiming. I shall ask you to keep in mind also the difference between the goal at which socialists are aiming and the methods which they employ to reach that goal.

"Two men may start in search of the South Pole. They may choose different routes. One will reach the object of his search and after planting the banner of civilization there will return to his native land. The other will choose a different route and perish in the cold and snow on the way.

Aim of Socialism.
"The aim of socialism and the aim of the church are not very different. They both talk about honesty and fair play. They emphasize an equal opportunity for all and a fair share in the products of toil. They talk about a democracy where all may have part in determining the policies of the government. They talk about eliminating from our industrial life all wrong, all opposition, all injustice, all poverty, want and crime. Is not the aim of one the aim of the other so far?"

"Indeed, it will be difficult to escape the claim that the ideal of Christianity is the ideal of socialism. Socialism deprecates war between individuals and nations, so does Christianity. Socialism is a gospel of hope since it holds out to mankind the prospect of relief from the burden of poverty and disease that now bears so heavily on the shoulders of the world's workers.

Methods of Socialism.
"It is to the methods socialism adopts in reaching its goal we object. We sympathize with their desires but we have no sympathy with the means by which they expect to realize their desires.

"There are two classes of socialists. One is called revolutionists and the other is called the Evolutionists and between these two there is all the difference in the world. Mr. Debs, the McNamara's, the Independent Workers of the World, the thirty-three dynamiters who were sent to the penitentiary on the first day of the New Year—belong to the revolutionary class and with them we can have no sympathy whatever. They believe in bloodshed and in violence. They would blow up a factory, spoil a piece of machinery, ruin a mill or do any kind of dastardly work to accomplish their purpose.

"The other class is called evolutionary socialists because they believe in a gradual approach to reforms. They believe that by the application of such forces as will reform and regenerate we can bring about by an evolutionary process all the changes needed in our industrial and political world.

"People holding to this view of industry are not regarded as the real thing by the more radical but they are socialists just the same and are accomplishing much in the way of bettering human conditions. Many reforms, many changes in government have come about as a result of this kind of socialistic agitation.

Results in Europe.
"These changes are perhaps more noticeable in Germany than in any other country. A few years ago Bismarck and the German emperor, in an attempt to outbrake the socialist party, enacted many laws in the interest of the common people hoping to remove the grounds of contention from the more violent. They cleansed their cities of the slum and removed from the minds of the people the fear of poverty in old age and took an intelligent interest in the working man. Germany today is perhaps the most socialized nation in the world. And the way she is forging ahead in industrial life may well be a lesson for other nations to consider.

"England had a more difficult lesson to learn but she is waking up. Ever since the rude shock she got in the Boer war she has shown signs of an increasing interest in the welfare of her common people. But in the face of a vast landless population thirty million strong any improvement seemed almost impossible. The stupendous sum paid by the tenants of England to the land monopoly in the way of rent was almost prohibitive of any improvement among the masses. But the socialists began to agitate and to expose the existing political and industrial wrongs until today socialism is the dominant note in English politics.

"David Lloyd George, John Burns, Winston Churchill and a host of other politicians are leading in reforms which, if not named in the socialist platform, are being swept all that the socialist party stands for. While some of the most conservative politicians are advocating a wholesale state interference in the industrial affairs of the kingdom and have made specific recommendations encouraging profit sharing, pensions for old age, sickness and unemployment, and so on.

Result in United States.
"It would not be difficult to name a number of changes in government which have come as a result of socialists' agitation in the United States. Men have come to see that certain things in the country are wrong and in their desire to correct those evils they have adopted measures which have made for social improvement in city, state and nation.

"The great danger to the reformer in this country confronted was in getting the attention of our representatives. Our political parties have clung so pathetically to old platitudes of tariff and political equality they have had no time to think of the real needs of the country. Their eyes were continually turned to things across the sea—things in the distance, and while they were thus engaged great unvoiced interests fastened themselves upon our throats and suck our life blood away.

"But no intelligent man can overlook the fact that a change has come over our political sky within the last decade. There is an aroused conscience, an awakened manhood, a new sense of personal responsibility not felt a few years ago. If you will put your ear to the common cry you can hear the tramp, tramp of a marching army and you will also hear a new topic of conversation among the ranks. They are talking about 'a new patriotism,' 'a square deal,' 'rational responsibility.' They are talking about the relation of employer to employee, of mutual dependence of capital and labor, of sympathy, co-operation, brotherhood.

Changes in American Life.
"A new sense of right and wrong has come and as a result many things have passed out of our life never more to return. Slavery which was fostered in our midst for nearly one hundred years, because of a new conscience, had to go. A few years ago men took rebuke from railroads without thinking much about it; they can't do so today. A few years ago a man could practice the methods of a political boss and remain a member in good standing in any evangelical church; he can't do that today.

"A few years ago it was thought that religion had nothing to do with factories and shops and stores and mills and farms and offices, and that men might leave their religion at home when they entered their places of business. And it on the Sabbath Day they made liberal contributions to some philanthropy it atoned for all irregularity in business. It is not so today. The test of religion today is clean hands; honorable deeds, open methods. Christ in the office as well as in the church house, a man who cannot see that better conditions are coming in business, in politics and in industry. And the change is not the result of any upheaval in society. There has been no cataclysm. No man can say 'Lo here' or 'Lo there.' But just as the spring, with its life giving forces comes after the earth has been held all the winter in its frozen embrace, so has come the revolt against wrong conditions; so has come this awakened conscience; this determined effort to bring business and social life into harmony with moral ideals.

"I am not too sanguine, therefore, when I say that the final triumph of the right over the wrong in industry is in sight. We have driven smallpox from our midst; we have forever freed our people from the pest of cholera and yellow fever. Shall we say that poverty and want, that injustice and wrong have so fastened themselves upon our social and industrial life as to make it impossible forever to obtain a release from their menacing grip?"

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

THE MANICURE.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

THE manicure is an attractive young woman with a self-possession, air and a set of surgical instruments, who operates on the human mitt at $1 per op. She is usually connected with the torsorial parlors; concealed behind a Japanese screen, in order to prevent a man and a woman in her direction on the part of susceptible lovers.

It is the business of the manicure to take the hand of a patron between the thumb and little finger and play on it with a prying hook in the case of a man who has not been manicured since his wedding day this is a painful process. The nail is first pruned violently with a sharp sickle, which causes the cuticle to retreat hurriedly and results in excavating the half moon, everywhere looked upon as the sign of blue-blooded ancestry. The man who can be manicured without having several half moons rise to the surface shows that his forefathers got their start mixing mortar.

After the cuticle has been backed up several inches, the manicure draws a pair of murderous shears and trims off the superfluous foliage without any regard for the feelings of the trimmings, who wonders if it is her intention to remove the finger. The nails are then covered with a pink sacre and rubbed until they begin to smoke, when they are cooled off with talcum powder and a demand for immediate payment. The manicure's business is at C. O. D. and the estimated profit is 99.4 per cent.

As a rule, manicures are a well-heeled, decorous class of young women who do not care to be made fore to urging business hours. It is a dangerous thing to attempt to press a manicure's little finger in a coy and insinuating way, at the same time that she is hopping around with a chop suey stick, as she is liable to attract the attention by springing up a bridge path in the customer's thumb.

From port to port goes this old sport, to find a peaceful haven, and everywhere he meets despair—his emblem is the raven. He goes to France—his name is Pance, they shoot him from the harbor; 'your record's wrong, your beard's too long,' they cry, 'go hire a barber.' He goes to Spain; he's sold again, the don won't let him linger; 'oh, fade away,' they sternly say, and point 'fading' fingers. On England's coast, CASTRO docks a peeler walks his exit to determine, and there's a gun to plug him one in every harbor German. The world around he's never found a 'Welcome to Our City'; no cordial hand when he would land, not even words of pity. From Rome to Greece the jay police are watching for his nobles; and he must eat the outcasts' meat, and drink from bitter goblets. Across the waves come bloody knaves and brigands of all nations; we let them in with cordial grin to ply their weird vocations. The foul-eyed thief, the bandit chief, the gent who's skilled in murder, may join our bands; when CASTRO lands, we beg him to go further. Oh, is it fair that everywhere this poor old ex is harried? That there's a roar on every shore if he two hours has tarried?

Called Music Nerve Poison.
Frederick Nietzsche agreed with those who found no inspiration in music. Indeed, he regarded music as a nerve poison, and declared that some music—particularly that of Wagner and Tchaikovsky—deranged the minds of many who heard it. Tchaikovsky killed himself after completing his famous "Sixth Symphony," which, as several other have died by their own hands after playing it, has come to be known as the "suicide Symphony."

Pure Beer Will Not make You Bilious

We go to Bohemia for hops; one of our partners selects the barley; water is brought from rock 1400 feet under the ground.

Not only is Schlitz—every drop of it—filtered through white wood pulp, but even the air in which it is cooled is filtered.

Before it is offered to you, it is aged for months in glass enamelled tanks. It will not, it cannot cause biliousness. It will not ferment in your stomach.

Light starts decay even in pure beer. Dark glass gives the best protection against light. The Brown Bottle protects Schlitz purity from the brewery to your glass.

"But he is a confirmed sleep talker, and each night I have listened. Out sir, he is conspiring in a plot against the government, his talk is full of royalty, and of evenings spent with designing kings and queens. I thought it my duty to come to you."

"Did he speak of any of the king's relations?" inquired the great detective, after a short, but expressive pause.

Yes. Associated with his ramblings of kings and queens, always there is reference to somebody's aunt."

The great detective hid a smile behind one lean hand and assured her there was nothing to it.

To humor or wait upon these children is to doom them to lives of want and misery. They really have more than ordinary ability and when trained to know what they can do, if they will they will value accomplishments far more than lazy enjoyment, and their success is assured.

Make Us Prove It

We dare not exaggerate to you. We are dependent upon your patronage. To get it we must have your trust and confidence. We make the following statements with a full understanding of what they mean to us. You are safe when you believe in these statements.

For the Bowels

If you only knew as much as we and those who have used them know about Rexall Orderlies, you would be as enthusiastic about recommending them as we are. They taste just like candy. They act so easily and so pleasantly that the taking of them is a pleasure.

Even children like Rexall Orderlies; and you know that if a medicine appeals to a child, it will appeal to grown-ups.

Rexall Orderlies

(help chase gloom, dispel blues and make you feel happy by their splendid tonic, cleansing and strengthening effect upon the bowels.—They act to free the system—and keep it free—from the distress and ill feeling that naturally results from irregular and inactive bowels.)

Rexall Orderlies do this quietly, without griping or causing nausea, purging or excessive looseness. They act to overcome and remove the cause of bowel ills and in a short time usually make the distressed, continued use of physics and purgatives thus tending to stop such unhealthy habits as may have been formed.

Make Us Prove This
We do not ask you to take our word for this. We want you to make us prove it, and at no cost to you.

Buy a box of Rexall Orderlies at our store. Use them once, or use up the whole box. Then, if you are not thoroughly satisfied, just come back empty handed and tell us. Without obligating you or questioning you we will return the money you paid us for them.

Doesn't that indicate that Rexall Orderlies are at least worthy of trial? Doesn't it prove our faith in them? Doesn't it merit your confidence? Could any offer be more fair to you?

We particularly recommend Rexall Orderlies for children, delicate and aged persons. Rexall Orderlies come in convenient vest-pocket size tin boxes, 12 tablets, 10c; 35 tablets, 25c; 80 tablets, 50c.

CONTINUING FROM THE DOGS-MERRILL COMIC

CHAPTER XIII.

Aleck sees a Ghost.

Little Simon drove leisurely up the long, rugged hill over which Agatha and James had so recently traveled, and drew rein in the shade of a distant city block from his destination. He pointed with his whip while he addressed Aleck, his sole passenger.

"Yonder's the old red house, mister. The parson, he hated to have his trees gnawed, and Major here's a great horse for gnawing the bark off trees. So I never go no nearer the house than this."

"All right, Simon; you wait for me here."

Aleck walked slowly along the country road, enjoying the fragrant fields, the quiet beauty of the place. It was still early in the day, for he had lost no time in following the clues gathered from the village as to the survivors of the Jeanne D'Arc. The air was fresh and clean, with a tang of the distant salt marshes.

A long row of hemlocks and Norway spruce bordered the road, and, with the aid of a stone wall, shut off from the highway a prosperous-looking vegetable garden. Farther along a flower garden glowed in the fantastic coloring which gardens acquire when planted for the love of flowers rather than for definite artistic effects. Farther still, two lilac bushes stood sentinel on either side of a gateway; and behind, a deep green lawn lay under the light, dappled shade of tall trees. It was a lawn that spoke of many years of care; and in the middle of its velvet green, under the branches of two sheltering elms, stood the old red house. It looked comfortable and secure, in its homely simplicity; something to depend on in the otherwise mutable scenes of life. Aleck felt an instantaneous liking for it, and was glad that his errand, sad as it might possibly be, had yet led him thither.

Long French windows in the lower part of the house opened upon the piazza, and from the second story breezed white curtains fluttered to the breeze. As the shield-shaped knocker clanged dully to Aleck's stroke, a large, melancholy hound came slowly round the corner of the house, approached the visitor with tentative wags of the tail, and after sniffing mildly, lay down on the cool grass. It wasn't a house to be hurried, that was plain. After a wait of five or ten minutes Aleck was about to knock again, when a face appeared at one of the side-lights of the door. Presently the door itself opened a few inches, and an elderly spinsterhood, wrapped in severe inquiry, looked out at him.

"Can I see the lady, or either of the gentlemen, who recently arrived here from the yacht, the Jeanne D'Arc?"

Aleck's voice and manner were friendly enough to disarm suspicion itself. Sallie Kingsbury looked at him for a full second.

"Come in."

Aleck followed her into the wide, dim hall, and waited while she pulled down the shade of the sidelight which she had lifted for observation. Then she opened a door on the right and said:

"Set down in the parlor while I go and take my salt risin' away from the stove. I ain't had time to call my soul my own since the folks came, what with callers at all times of the day."

Sallie's voice was not as inhospitable as her words. She was mildly hurt and grieved, rather than offended. She disappeared and presently came back with a white apron on in place of the colored gingham she had worn before; but it is doubtful if Aleck noticed this tribute to his sex. Sallie looked withered and pinched, but more by nature and disposition than by age. She stood with arms akimbo near the center-table, regarding Aleck with inquisitiveness not unminged with liking. "You can set down, sir," she said politely, "but I don't know as you can see any of the folks. The man, he's upstairs sick, clean out of his head; the young man, he's 'nursing him. Can't leave him alone a minute, or he'd be up and getting out the window, frill I know."

Aleck listened sympathetically. "A sad case! And what is the name, if I may ask, of the young man who is so ill?"

"Lor, I don't know," said Sallie. "The new mistress, her name's Redmond; some kin of Parson Thayer's, and she's got this house and a lot of money. The lawyer was here yesterday and got the will all fixed. She's a singer, too—one of those opery singers down below, she is."

Sallie made this announcement as if she was relating a bewildering blow of Providence for which she herself was not responsible. Aleck, who began to fear that he might be the recipient of more confidences than decorum dictated, hastily proffered his next question.

"Can I see the lady, Miss Redmond? Or is it Mrs. Redmond?"

Sallie gave a scornful, injured sniff. "Miss Redmond, sir, though she's old enough to be a Mrs. I wouldn't so much mind her coming in here and using the parson's china that I always washed with my own hands if she was a Mrs. But what can she, an unmarried woman and an opery singer, know about Parson Thayer's ways and keeping this house in order, when I've been with him going on seventeen years and he took me out the Home when I was no more than a child?"

Aleck's heart would have been stone had he resisted this all but passionate plea.

"You have been faithfulness itself, I am sure. But do you think Miss Redmond would see me, at least for a few minutes?"

Sallie recovered her dignity, which had been near a collapse in tears, and assumed her official tone. "I don't know as you can, and I don't know as you can. She's sick, too; fell overboard somehow or other, off one of those pesky boats, and got neuralgia and I don't know what all. But I'll go and see how she's feeling."

"Stay, wait a minute," said Aleck, seized with a new thought. "I'll write a message to Miss Redmond and then she'll know just what I want. If you'll be so good as to take it to her?"

"Why, certainly, of course I will," said Sallie Kingsbury. "Only you needn't take all that trouble. I can tell her what you want myself."

Sallie was one of those persons who regard the pen as the weapon of last resort, not to be used until necessity compels. But Aleck continued writing on a blank leaf of his note-book. The message was this:

"Can you give me any information concerning my cousin, James Hambleton, who was thought to be aboard the Jeanne D'Arc?"

He tore the leaf out, extracted a card from his pocketbook, and handed leaf and card to Sallie. "Will you please give these to Miss Redmond?" Sallie wiped her hands, which were perfectly clean, on her white apron, took the card and bit of paper and departed, sniffing audibly. When she returned, it was to say, with a slightly more interested air, that Miss Redmond wished to see him upstairs.

She stood at the bottom of the wide stairway and pointed to a corner of the upper floor. "She's in there—room on the right!" and so she stalked off to the kitchen.

Aleck Van Camp sought the region indicated by Sallie's gaunt finger with some misgivings; but he was presently guided further by a clear voice. "Come in this way, Mr. Van Camp, if you please!"

The voice led him to an open door, before which he stood, looking into a large, old-fashioned bedroom, from whose windows the white curtains fluttered in the breeze. Miss Redmond was propped up with pillows on a horsehair-covered lounge, which stood along the foot of a monstrous bed. She was clothed in some sort of wool wrapper, and over her feet was thrown a faded traveling rug. By her side stood a chair on which were writing materials, Aleck's note and card, and a half-written letter. Agatha sat up as she greeted Aleck.

"I am glad to see you, Mr. Van Camp. Will you come in? I ask your pardon for not coming downstairs to see you, but I have been ill, and am not strong yet."

She was about to motion Aleck to a chair, but stopped in the midst of her speech, arrested by his expression. Aleck stood rooted to the door-sill, with a look of surprise on his face which amounted to actual amazement. Thus apparently startled out of himself, he regarded Agatha earnestly.

"Will you come in?" Agatha repeated at last.

"Pardon me," he said finally in his precise drawl, "but I confess to being startled. You—you bear such an extraordinary resemblance to some one I know, that I thought it must really be she, for a moment."

Agatha smiled faintly. "You looked as if you had seen a ghost."

Aleck gazed at her again, a long, scrutinizing look. "It does make one feel queer, you know."

"But now that you are assured that I'm not a ghost, will you sit down? That chair by the window, please. And I can't tell you how glad I am to see you; for James Hambleton, your cousin, if he is your cousin, is here in this house, and he is ill—very ill indeed."

Aleck's nonchalance had already disappeared, in the series of surprises; but at Agatha's words a flush of pleasure and relief overspread his face. He strode quickly over toward Agatha's couch.

"Oh, I say—old Jim—I thought, I was afraid—"

Agatha was touched by the evidences of his emotion, and her voice became very gentle. "I fancy it is the same—James Hambleton of Lynn?"

Aleck nodded and she went on: "That's what he told me, the night we were wrecked."

Agatha looked at Aleck, as if she would discover whether he were trustworthy or not, before giving him more of her story. Presently she continued:

"He's a very brave, a very wonderful man. He jumped overboard to save me, after I fell from the ladder; and then he left us and we swam ashore. But long before we got there I fainted, and he brought me in, all the way, though he was nearly dead of exhaustion himself. He had hemorrhage from overexertion, and afterward a chill. And now there is fever."

Agatha's voice was trembling. Aleck watched her as she told her tale, the flush of happiness and joy still lighting up his face. As she finished relating the meager facts which to her denoted so many heart-throbs, a sob drowned her voice. As Aleck followed the story, his own eyes wavered.

"That's Jim, down to the ground. Good old boy!" he said.

There was a silence for a minute, then he heard Agatha's voice, grown little and faint. "If he should die!"

Aleck, still standing by Agatha's couch, suddenly shook himself. "Where is he? Can I see him now?"

Agatha got up slowly and led the way down the hall, pointing to a door that stood ajar. It was evident that she was weak.

"I can't go in—I can't bear to see him so ill," she whispered; and as Aleck looked at her before entering the sick-room, he saw that her eyes were filled with tears.

Agatha went back to her couch, feeling that the heavens had opened. Here was a friend come to her from she knew not where, whose right it was to assume responsibility for the sick man. He was kind and good, and he loved her rescuer with the boyish devotion of their school-days. He would surely help; he would work with her to keep death away. Whatever love and professional skill could do, should be done; there had been no question as to that, of course, from the beginning. But here was some one who would double, yes, more than double her own efforts; some one who was strong and well and capable. Her heart was thankful.

Before Aleck returned from the sick-room, Doctor Thayer's step sounded on the stairs, followed by the mildly complaining voice of Sallie Kingsbury. Presently the two men were, in a low-voiced conference in the hall. Agatha waited while they talked, feeling grateful afresh that Doctor Thayer's grim professional wisdom was to be reinforced by Mr. Van Camp's resources. When the doctor entered Agatha's room, her face had almost the natural flush of health.

"Ah, Miss Agatha Redmond—the doctor continued frequently to address her by her full name, half in affectionate deference and half with some dry sense of humor peculiar to himself—Miss Agatha Redmond, so you're beginning to pick up! A good thing, too; for I don't want two patients in one house like the one out yonder. He's a very sick man, Miss Agatha."

"I know, doctor. I have seen him grow worse, hour by hour, even since we came. What can be done?"

"He needs special nursing now, and your man in there will be worn out presently."

"Oh, that can be managed. Send to Portland, to Boston, or somewhere. We can get a nurse here soon. Do not spare any trouble, doctor. I can arrange—"

Doctor Thayer squared himself and passed slowly up and down Agatha's room. He did not reply at once, and when he did, it was with one of his characteristic turns toward an apparently irrelevant topic.

"Have you seen Sister Susan?" he inquired, stopping by the side of Agatha's couch and looking down on her with his shrewd gaze. It was a needless question, for he knew that Agatha had not seen Mrs. Stoddard. She had been too weak and ill to see anybody. Agatha shook her head.

"Well, Miss Agatha Redmond, Susan's the nurse we need for that young gentleman over there. It's constant care he must have now, day and night; and if he gets well, it will be good nursing that does it. There isn't a nurse in this country like Susan, when she once takes hold of a case. That Mr. Hand in there is all right, but he can't sit up much longer night and day, as he has been doing. And he isn't a woman. Don't know why it is, but the Lord seems bent on throwing sick men into women's hands—as if they weren't more than a match for us when we're well!"

Agatha's humorous smile rewarded the doctor's grim comments, if that was what he wanted.

"No, doctor," she said, with a fleeting touch of her old lightness, "we're never a match for you. We may entertain you or nurse you or feed you, or possibly once in a century or two inspire you; but we're never a match for you."

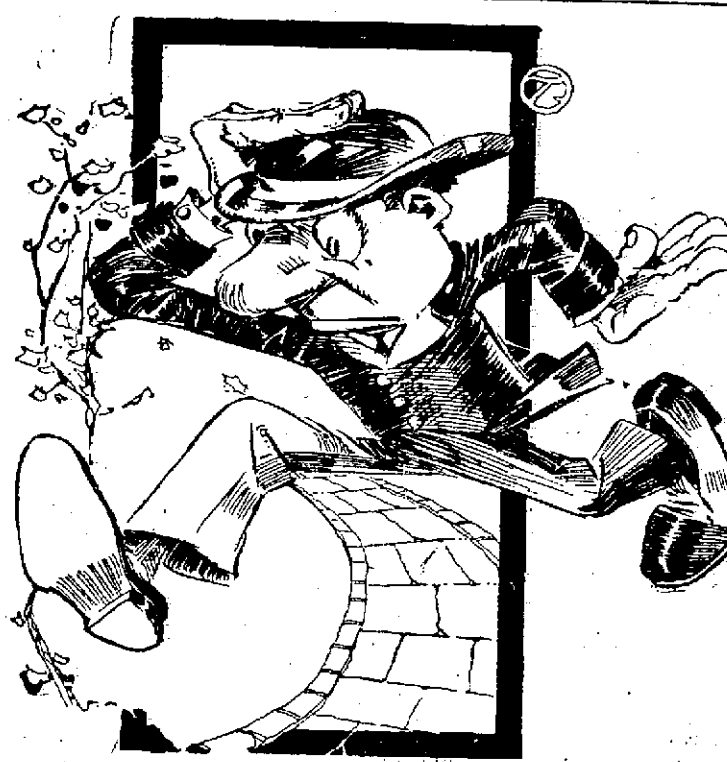

"For which Heaven be praised!" ejaculated the doctor fervently.

Agatha watched him as he fumbled nervously about the room or clasped his hands behind him under his long coat-tails. The greenish-black frock coat hung untidily upon him, and his white fringe of hair was anything but smooth. She perceived that something other than medical problems troubled him.

"Would your sister—would Mrs. Stoddard—be willing to come here to take care of Mr. Hambleton?" she ventured.

DINNER STORIES

The nervous lady in a frantic hurry hailed a taxi and clamored inside. But before she had properly closed the door, the vehicle bounded away at a furious rate.

Dropping the door handle the nervous lady subsided in a huddled heap on the floor of the cab and clutched the seat with both hands, while the taxi marooned blithely on its way.

"Jolt, jerk, jump went the car, and the lady wobbled from side to side furiously. Then, panic-stricken, she yelled:

"Hi, hi! Stop! Oh, do stop, please!"

Under Another Name.

While at a motion-picture show matinee watching the pictures Janet, aged four, leaned over and said: "Auntie, I'm trying. Give me your handkerchief."

The cause was the killing of a man, I turned to her little friend Alice, same age, and said: "Are you crying, too?"

"Oh, no, my eyes are just sweaty," Exchange.

Sweeping the Sick Room.

Never sweep a sick room while the patient is in it, as the dust is exceedingly dangerous, both to the sufferer and the sweeper. Wipe the floor with a cloth wrung out in ammonia and water, or if it has a carpet, wipe that in the same manner.

"Thou Madest Me for Thyself."

O thou God Omnipotent, who so carest for every one of us, as if thou carest for him alone; and so for all, as if all were but one! To thee will I intrust whatsoever I have received from thee. So shall I lose nothing. Thou madest me for thyself, and my heart is restless until it repose in thee. Amen.—St. Augustine.

HOW TO RESIST

Chronic Coughs and Colds.

Strong vigorous men and women hardly ever catch cold; its only when the system is run down and vitality low that colds and coughs get a foothold.

Now isn't it reasonable that the right way to cure a cold is to build up your run down condition again.

Mrs. Olivia Parham of East Durham, N. C., says: "I took Vinol for a chronic cough which had lasted two years and the cough not only disappeared, but it built up my strength as well."

The Reason Vinol is so efficacious in such cases is because it contains a delicious concentrated form of all the medicinal nutritive elements of cod liver oil, with tonic, blood building iron added.

Chronic coughs and colds yield to Vinol because it builds up the weakened, run-down system.

You can get your money back any time if Vinol does not do all we say. Smith Drug Co., Janesville, Wis.

END LIVER TROUBLE WITHOUT CALOMEL

Untrustworthy Drug Thought to "Loosen the Teeth." Now Made Absolutely Unnecessary.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are the mildest, but surest, laxative known, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

Dr. Edwards has been calomel's uncompromising foe. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets, a rare combination of vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil. These pleasant, harmless little tablets do all the good that calomel does but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids, or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel at all, but to let Olive Tablets take their place.

Most headaches, "dizziness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Olive Tablets when you feel "tummy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" the clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits.

At 10c and 25c a box. "Every Little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own."

Tea Known in England Since 1615.

The earliest mention of tea drinking in England occurs in a letter from Mr. Wickham from Japan, dated June 27, 1615. In 1658 the English began to drink tea in society circles, the supply being imported from Java at the cost of $30 to $50 a pound. It is quite needless to say that the common people did not drink much tea during those days.
